

AMPED Selected to Manage APTA Pennsylvania Chapter

AMPED Association Management, an accredited full-service association management company with offices in Madison, Wisconsin and Metro Washington, DC, has been selected to manage APTA Pennsylvania, a component of the American Physical Therapy Association.

With a dedicated staff and proven processes, AMPED brings a wealth of professional association experience to APTA Pennsylvania. The company will provide comprehensive management services, including leadership, strategic planning, governance, education, membership development, meeting planning, industry relations, financial management, and communications. AMPED also manages three APTA Academies: Leadership and Innovation, Geriatrics, and Pediatrics.

Leigh Maltby will serve as Executive Director of APTA Pennsylvania, overseeing the organization's operations and working closely with the Board of Directors, volunteer leaders, and members.

"It's inspiring to see the commitment and passion of the APTA Pennsylvania community," said Maltby. "Our aim is to bring confidence and stability to the management of the organization, enabling its leadership to focus on advancing their mission and goals. By implementing association best practices, we look forward to enhancing professionalism, transparency, and innovation for APTA Pennsylvania and its members."

APTA Pennsylvania President Scott Voshell said, "We were drawn to AMPED's depth of services and the enthusiasm their team brings to the table. We're confident that their expertise will help us introduce innovative ideas and elevate the resources and support we provide to our members."

APTA Pennsylvania represents more than 5,100 dedicated physical therapy professionals and students across the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. With educational opportunities, networking, and resources for the PT professional, APTA Pennsylvania is committed to fostering advancements in physical therapy practice, research, and education for its members and its community.

#

ABOUT AMPED

AMPED Association Management (www.manageassociations.com) is a full-service association management company with offices in Madison, WI and Metro Washington, DC. AMPED uses the knowledge gained from working with multiple organizations to help associations achieve their highest potential. AMPED provides association leadership, strategic planning, meeting planning and management, member communications, financial management, and public relations services to a variety of national and global trade and professional associations.

AMPED is proud of its team of 45 staff, which includes CAE (Certified Association Executive), CMP (Certified Meeting Professional) and FASAE (Fellow of the American Society of Association Executives) designates. Of the more than 500 association management companies worldwide, AMPED is one of only 80 firms that have achieved the prestigious AMC Institute accreditation, demonstrating the highest level of professionalism and responsibility, while consistently meeting and exceeding all industry standards.

We are always looking to add association professionals from all backgrounds to our pipeline. Let's start a conversation about how you might fit into the future of AMPED! Check out our official openings here: <https://manageassociations.com/about-amped/openings>